 30% for you, on every payment your referral makes, for as long as they stay subscribed.
 1 free month for them, on top of their free trial.

1. The idea in one sentence

Share your referral code: everyone who creates their Flopix site thanks to you gets a free month, and you earn 30% of what they pay, month after month, for as long as they stay subscribed.

Everybody wins

The person you recommend starts with their free trial and then a free month on their first subscription, and you're rewarded with a recurring commission. There's nothing to pay up front, no cap on the number of referrals, and the program is free and completely optional.

2. How much you earn

Your commission is 30% of every payment made by the person you referred (your "referral"), on the monthly plan and the annual plan alike. It's calculated on what your referral actually paid.

Your referral's plan	What you earn
Monthly	30% of every monthly payment, every month
Annual	30% of every annual payment, renewals included

Prices for both plans are on flopix.fr/en, in the Pricing section.

Recurring, not one-and-done

You earn your commission on every payment your referral makes, from their first one and for as long as their subscription stays active. The day they cancel, the commission stops; what you've already earned stays yours.

It applies to your referral's first site

The commission is based on the subscription for the first site your referral signs up for. If they create more sites later, those extra subscriptions don't earn a new referral commission.

The trial and the free month cost you nothing

Your referral first gets the free trial (3 days on monthly, 7 days on annual), then their free month, which Flopix covers. They pay nothing during those periods, so naturally there's no commission (30% of zero is zero): your commissions start with their first real payment and then repeat with every billing cycle.

3. How to refer people

It all starts with your unique referral code, created automatically with your account and available on the "Affiliate program" page (My account menu). Share it however you like, in any of three forms.

- 1 Grab your code, link or QR code. On the Affiliate program page, you'll find your code (for example K7M2PQ9R), a referral link ready to copy ("Copy link" button) and a QR code you can download in "Small size" or "Large size" for print.
- 2 Share it. Send the link by text, email or social media; read the code out loud (it's designed without look-alike characters, so it's easy to say and type); or put the QR code on a business card, a shop window or a flyer. All three lead to the same place.
- 3 Your referral signs up and creates their site. They sign up through your link or QR code, or enter your code in the "Discount or referral code" field on the payment page. Their free month is applied automatically to their first paid subscription, and the link between the two of you is recorded. As soon as they make their first real payment, your commissions begin.

A second way to earn: build a site for someone

You can also build a site yourself for a friend, a client or a local business ("Build a site for someone" button on the Affiliate program page), then transfer ownership to them from the site's page: "More actions", then "Transfer ownership of this site". Once they accept the transfer and pay for their subscription, you're the one who earns the 30% commission on that site, even if they already have a referrer of their own.

What about discount codes?

The referral free month takes priority: if your referral also enters a discount code, the code is ignored, since only one discount applies per payment. The free trial, on the other hand, does stack with the free month.

4. Tracking your referrals and earnings

All your affiliate activity shows up in real time on the Affiliate program page. There's no spreadsheet to keep yourself.

Your four counters

Counter	What it tells you
Referrals	The number of people you've brought in, through both channels (referral and site transfer).
Commissions to receive	The total commissions you're owed that haven't been paid out yet.
Available balance	The amount you can request as a payout right now.
Commissions already paid	Everything you've received so far.

The "My referrals" table

Each referral is listed with: their name, their source ("Referral code" or "Transferred site"), their sign-up date, their plan (monthly or annual), their subscription status (active, or none / canceled), their subscription end (renewal date, or "Canceled, ends on..."), what they've brought you so far ("Earned so far") and the "Next estimated commission". Someone who comes through both channels appears on two lines, one per source.

Commission history

A second table lists every commission: the date, the person (and their site), the source (referral or transferred site), the amount billed, your 30% commission and its status ("To pay" or "Paid").

Estimates use the full price

The "Next estimated commission" is based on the full price, because a welcome discount only applies once: your referral renews at full price, and so does your next commission. The basis for the calculation is shown under each estimate.

5. How you get paid

Your commissions add up automatically. To receive them, you request a payout from the Affiliate program page, in the "Request payout of my balance" section. Payouts are made by bank transfer, sent manually by the Flopix team after review.

- 1 Reach the minimum balance. A minimum balance is required before you can request a payout: the exact amount is shown on the Affiliate program page, right under your claimable balance. Below it, the request button stays inactive and your commissions simply keep adding up.
- 2 Enter your bank details. Provide the account holder's full name, your IBAN and your BIC (SWIFT code). They're saved for your next requests, and you can change them at any time ("Edit" link).
- 3 Send your request. Click "Request payout of...": your entire available balance is then attached to that request. Flopix reviews it and sends the transfer. Only one request can be in progress at a time; commissions earned in the meantime make up your next claimable balance.

Good to know

- Payouts are handled manually, so they aren't instant: a short processing time is normal. The page shows the date of your pending request.
- Payouts require valid bank details (IBAN and BIC).
- Commissions you've already earned stay yours, even if the program changes later.

6. What counts as a referral, and what doesn't

A referral is someone you can earn a commission on. That happens through two channels, which can both apply to the same person.

What counts

- Referral: someone signs up with your code, your link or your QR code.
- Site transfer: you build a site and transfer ownership to someone, who accepts it and pays for their subscription.

The same person can come through both channels (you referred them, then transferred a site to them). In that case, the rules allow at most two commissions on that person, one per channel; they still count as a single referral in your counter.

So who earns the commission?

The commission follows whoever actually brought in the paid site. If someone else built and transferred a site to your referral, and that's the site they pay for first, that person earns the commission on it. You don't lose out, though: the first site your referral creates and pays for on their own is still yours.

What doesn't earn a commission

- Your own account: a code can't be used on the account that issued it.
- The same billing address: no benefits between two accounts registered at the same address (same street, ZIP code and city).
- Cross-referrals: someone you referred can't refer you back.
- Fake accounts and fraud: accounts created only to generate undue commissions are excluded.
- Beyond the first site: only payments for your referral's first site earn a commission.
- Periods with no payment: the free trial, the free month, and canceled or unpaid subscriptions don't generate commissions.

7. A real-world example

Let's say you recommend Flopix to three people over the course of a year.

Referral	What they do	What you earn
Maria	Creates her site on the monthly plan. She gets 3 trial days, then her free month, then pays every month.	30% of each of her monthly payments. In her first year, that's about 11 monthly commissions (the free month doesn't generate one).
Kevin	Chooses the annual plan. After his 7-day trial, his first year is billed at the annual price minus one monthly payment (his free month).	30% of that first payment, then 30% of the full annual price at every renewal.
Sophie	Signs up with your code but never ends up with a paid site (or cancels during her trial).	Nothing: no payment, no commission.

That's the power of a recurring commission: the following year, if Maria and Kevin stay subscribed, you keep earning 30% of every payment they make, at full price, without having to refer anyone new. It keeps working for you as long as your referrals stay customers.

How to read these numbers

Actual amounts are always calculated on what your referral really paid, rounded to the cent. To work them out, apply 30% to the prices listed on flopix.fr/en, in the Pricing section, or just check the "Earned so far" and "Next estimated commission" columns on your Affiliate program page.

8. The rules

The program rests on one simple principle: the referrer and the referral must be two genuinely different people. The rules below keep things fair; they're detailed in article 9 of the Terms of Sale.

What we expect

- Recommend Flopix to real people who are genuinely interested in a website.
- A referral links two accounts belonging to two different people, at two different billing addresses.
- Transferring ownership between two different people is perfectly fine, including when you build the site for someone.

What's not allowed

- Referring yourself through a second account, or setting up cross-transfers between accounts controlled by the same person or household.
- Creating fake accounts to generate undue commissions or discounts.
- Any scheme meant to get around the rules above.

If the rules are broken

Flopix may cancel any discounts granted, withhold the related commissions and, for repeated or serious violations, close the account involved.

For referrals: the free month, at most twice

An account can receive the free month at most twice: once through a referral (on the first site they create and pay for themselves) and once through a transfer (on the first site they receive and pay for). Each benefit is used up as soon as it's applied to a payment.

9. Frequently asked questions

Is the commission paid once, or on every payment?

On every payment. You earn 30% of each payment your referral makes for their first site, for as long as their subscription stays active.

Is there a limit to how many people I can refer?

No. Refer as many people as you like; every active referral adds their commission to your balance.

When can I request a payout?

As soon as your available balance reaches the minimum shown on the Affiliate program page. Below that, your commissions keep adding up until you reach it.

How do I get paid?

By bank transfer, when you request it, once you've entered the account holder's name, your IBAN and your BIC. The Flopix team sends the payout manually after review.

What happens if my referral cancels their subscription?

The commissions you've already earned are still yours. No new commissions are generated after the cancellation, though, since there are no more payments.

Do my referral's free trial and free month cost me money?

No. Flopix covers them. There's simply no commission during those periods with no payment; your commissions start with their first real payment.

My referral creates several sites. Do I earn on all of them?

No. The commission only applies to your referral's first site.

Can I refer a family member?

Yes, as long as they're a separate person with their own billing address. Referrals don't apply between two accounts registered at the same address (same household).

Can I earn two commissions on the same person?

At most two, as long as they come from two different channels: one through a referral, one through a site transfer. Never twice through the same channel.

Can my referral use a discount code too?

No: the referral free month takes priority and the code is ignored. They do keep their free trial, which stacks with the free month.

Do I need to be a customer to become an affiliate?

No. Just create a free Flopix account: your code and your link are generated automatically.

Is the program mandatory, or does it cost anything?

The program is completely optional and free. You can reach it anytime from the Affiliate program page in your account, and it's explained at flopix.fr/en/programme-affiliation.
